General JOHN A. LOGAN, candidate for Congressman at Large, will speak as follows: [illegible]

General E. N. BATES, State Treasurer, will speak as follows: [illegible]

Hon. CASPAR BUTZ, candidate for State Prison Commissioner, will speak as follows: [illegible]

Colonel MERRIAM, Republican candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, will speak in the following places in Livingston County: [illegible]

By a dispatch published in other columns, it will be seen that Attorney General Bushnell, to whom the Governor referred the question of the apportionment of Representatives for Cook County under the new constitution, sustains the views of the Chicago committee, and decides that the county is entitled to its full representation of twenty-two members. As only a small portion of the Attorney General's opinion reaches us before the inside of the paper must go to press, we cannot here give the whole ground of his decision. Enough, however, is received to show that he argues the case on its general merits, and concludes from the general scope and character of the constitution and the intentions of its framers, that there could be no purpose of disfranchising a portion of the people of Cook County, and depriving them of their fair representation in the Legislature, according to their population. We assume that this settles the question, inasmuch as it was Governor Palmer's proposition to submit the points at issue to the decision of the Attorney General, and by that decision he will, of course, cheerfully abide. We do not hesitate, therefore, to congratulate our fellow-citizens upon a result which is due not less to the prompt and intelligent action of the committee of gentlemen who proceeded at once to Springfield to have an important mistake corrected, than to the sound views on constitutional law held by the Attorney General.

THE DEMOCRATIC DOCTRINE.

Senator Thurman, of Ohio, who aspires to the Presidency, in a recent speech in Cincinnati, took the ground that the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States, were never legally adopted and are, therefore no part of the Federal Constitution. This is the doctrine of the ultra Democracy of the South, and is unquestionably to be the Democratic issue in the Presidential election of 1872. The Thirteenth Amendment is the one which abolished slavery, and Senator Thurman, in declaring it to have never been adopted, falls a little short of Mr. Pendleton, who was at the time a member of Congress, and who declared that the amendment was void of itself, it not being in the power of the people, not even of all the States, to abolish slavery by an amendment to the constitution.

The Democratic party of the North seems to be unable to throw off the thraldom in which they were held for so many years by the slaveholders. Though the Southern people claimed that their negro slaves were the most docile and contented portion of the human family, and did not want to be free, the slaves, nevertheless, at the first opportunity, welcomed their emancipators, and entered heartily into the enjoyment of their freedom. Not so with the Northern Democracy. They were more abject slaves than ever were the negroes. Though numerically largely in excess of their Southern rulers, they accepted the law from the latter, and kissed the hand that smote them. All through the South, there is a lingering hope that in the future, in some way, they will be compensated for their slaves.

At the close of the war there were steps taken to perpetuate the evidence of ownership and [illegible] of slave property by individuals. To the very last Kentucky hoped that provision would be made to pay for the slaves. The Thirteenth Amendment abolished slavery, and the Fourteenth Amendment, at distinct [illegible] prohibited Congress from ever making any compensation for slave property. So long as these amendments stand, they are [illegible] all hope of compensation, and yet [illegible] claim for the property will be handed [illegible] from sire to son for generations. The Southern people say but little against the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments, because they live surrounded by the population whose liberty is involved. But the Northern Democracy, true to their old bondage, propose to agitate that question, and therefore they propose to treat the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments as nullities. This will not revive slavery, because that is a physical impossibility, but it will restore the legality of slave property, and will remove the constitutional prohibition against [illegible] progressment. The Democracy [illegible] present this question [illegible] except [illegible] the Republican party had violated State rights by making war upon rebellion, and by abolishing slavery [illegible] this fall, will [illegible] as Senator Thurman has done, that the Democratic party [illegible] the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the constitution [illegible]

The Alta California [illegible]

[illegible] foreign trade. In 1868-69, we imported [illegible] to the value [illegible] in the place of these. It requires but little machinery, and no [illegible] labor. In Europe, the work of picking and drying this fruit is done by women and children, and there is no reason why [illegible] California might not [illegible] the same labor. The labor is not heavy, [illegible] California has the capacity of producing all the dried fruit used in this country. The increase in the supply would naturally increase the demand, and [illegible] green and dried, of all kinds, would [illegible] source of immense value to that State, and to the whole country.

THE SCHOOL DEBT.

The following is a statement of the school bonds sold by the city of Chicago since April, 1867:

[illegible]

Total bonds sold [illegible]

In addition, $75,000 school construction bonds have been issued, of which about $15,000 have been purchased, leaving the whole outstanding debt on account of school buildings about $1,256,000. These bonds bear 7 per cent interest. We understand that of this sum there are about $400,000 on hand. While this whole subject is before the Common Council, would it not be as well to have an official statement of how this money was expended, and, also, a clear statement of how much each new school building has cost. If there be no responsibility for the expenditure of public money, there ought to be accountability. Therefore, when the Council adopts Alderman Woodard's proposed resolutions, calling for information from the Board of Education, it might not be out of place to ask for a detailed statement of the expenditure of the $800,000 made since April, 1867. What is it that the city has to show for the money?

THE MASTER MECHANICS.

So many national conventions assemble for the mere gratification of the vanity of opinionated, visionary, and shallow windbags, that it is a relief to read the proceedings of one convention of practical, skilled, sensible men, intent on perfecting our means of travel, lessening its cost, and saving human life. Such an one was that recently held in Philadelphia by the American Railway Master Mechanics' Association. The subjects discussed were specialties, and required for their proper comprehension, much mechanical knowledge not possessed by the general public. But the objects aimed at are of vital interest to the travelling public, which includes in America the whole people. The convention included 125 of the leading master mechanics, and machinists, and engineers of all the principal railroads in the country, many of them inventors, and men of large business capacity, and all of them men of special skill in their craft.

Their report on boilers predicts that great gain in power will result from continuing the experiments looking to a more complete combustion of the smoke and gases which now escape from railway locomotives; also, that bituminous coal is fast becoming the standard fuel for locomotives. It recommends that boilers have as few seams exposed to the water as possible, and also favors the use of steel boiler plates, especially in coal-burning engines.

On boiler explosions, the committee, with commendable frankness, admitted that no special causes, other than the general one of over-pressure, had been established. Their strength lies in making them as circular as possible, and their weakness is in laps and seams. The conclusion arrived at cannot be charged with an undue tendency to theorize. It is that "The taking up of heat from suddenly heated plates by water leads to a generation of steam of such [illegible], and pressure, that no safety-valve can relieve it. This is frequently the true cause of explosion. No hydraulic pressure test can be relied upon. It may be a test just four pounds below the exploding point, and it is useless. There is but one way to get up a perfectly or reasonably safe steam boiler. You must use the very best material; it must be manufactured in the most approved manner, and, after being [illegible] well constructed, it must be handled and [illegible] well taken care of. That is positively the only security that we have against steam boiler explosions." Every element of the train, from the track to the smokestack, and from the cowcatcher to the rear brake, was discussed and committees appointed to report on it for future discussion. The association is wholly free from every question of labor or politics, and great good will result from its thoroughly practical and scientific discussions.

Alderman Montgomery's resolution for appointing a committee to devise the best mode of regulating the "social evil," calls up a question upon which, if we mistake not, there has been some discussion heretofore. There is some force in the argument, that the prevention of disease, per se, without regard to the morality or immorality of the persons, is a public benefit, both to this generation and the next, and ought, by all means, to be promoted. There is great force in the suggestions which have been made by some intelligent and public-spirited ladies of this city, that the officers who have charge of official efforts to heal or reform abandoned women, should themselves be women. A board of highly respectable matrons could, no doubt, be appointed who would make it a labor of Christian love, to do their utmost in this service to their sex. No equally efficient and disinterested service could be obtained from men. We submit this suggestion with our own endorsement to the committee that may be appointed. We are confident it would do much to end that "cruel and unjust distinction against the weaker sex," which, as they declare, "has been manifested in our police jurisprudence of the past."

The "Peace Convention" which has just ended its sessions in an Eastern city, orders that a copy of its proceedings be sent to distinguished friends of the peace movement in America, and, among the rest, to the Sioux Chief Red Cloud. The proposition to send a copy to Spotted Tail would have been carried, but it not been understood that he had started on an expedition against some Pawnees who were protecting a railroad surveying party, and that the only way to bring it to the official notice of Spotted Tail would be to conceal it under the scalp of some of our railroad surveyors, or of a healthy Pawnee. A set of peace resolutions, however, would make good wadding for Spotted Tail's rifle, and, as this is the best use they could be put to, we regret they were not sent.

The Honorable Horatio Seymour, in a speech at [illegible], referred to a statement [illegible] that he was a candidate for the Presidency, and said that, "One such attempt had been sufficient to destroy any ambition he might have [illegible] in that direction." Mr. Seymour may speak [illegible] the people will remember [illegible] disclaimed being a candidate in [illegible], and went so far as to declare [illegible] he would not accept a nomination. Nevertheless, when nominated, he did accept. It may be, however, that Tammany [illegible] a younger soldier than Seymour, and that the latter, knowing the absolute power of Tammany, makes a virtue of the necessity which forces him to give place to Hoffman.

A number of colored persons who had emigrated from Louisiana to Hayti have returned, and report themselves [illegible]

[illegible]

This will relieve the wounded pride of the [illegible] King, to whom [illegible]

It will, at the same time, strengthen the ascendancy of Germany in Europe, even more than the election of Leopold of Hohenzollern could have done, since he was selected partly as the cousin of Napoleon, and in deference to France, while the Prince of Saxony, having the blood of the Beauharnais, would represent German ascendancy, and contempt, pure and simple, for France. Possibly, however, General Prim may find difficulty in delivering the Spanish throne to Bismark's appointee. If [illegible] will there be a march on Madrid?

Manufacture of Teeth.

It is stated that at least three millions of teeth are annually made in this country alone. The first operation, according to the method of manufacture pursued at one of the most extensive and reputable establishments, is in the choosing of the materials. These are feldspar, silica, and clay. To these are added various metallic oxides to produce any shade of color desired. The feldspar, clay, and silica are ground to an impalpable powder, [illegible] is a quite delicate process. The [illegible] put in platinum rivets, by which the teeth are fastened to the plate, are placed in position, and then the body is pressed into the mould. They are then subjected to powerful pressure and dried. After being dried, they are submitted to a process called biscuiting, [illegible] may be cut like chalk. They are then sent to the trimmers, who scrape off all projections [illegible] and wash them with a [illegible] enamel. This is composed of various substances, more fusible than the tooth body, and answers the glass in common porcelain making. It is ground to powder and suspended in water, and is laid on with a camel's-hair brush. They are now sent to the gummers, who apply the gum. This is chiefly composed of oxide of gold, and is applied in the same manner as the enamel. After being dried they are burned. This operation is carried on in a muffle. The teeth are placed on a bed of crushed quartz, which is placed on a slab of fireclay. After being exposed to an intense heat for some hours, they are taken out, cooled, and assorted.—Journal of Applied Chemistry.

SEA MOSS FARINE.

THE NEW FOOD SOURCE.

SEA MOSS FARINE.—This new and elegant preparation, made from Irish Moss, or Carrageen, is conceded to be the cheapest, healthiest and most delicious food in the world. As a delightful table dessert it has no equal, and is a light and delicate food for invalids and children. It is superior to all kindred preparations.

This new article of food has everywhere "won golden opinions" of all sorts of people, and the housekeepers of the land generally regard it in the double light of a staple necessary and a delicious luxury, for while it lessens the expense of living, the exquisite dishes prepared from it cannot be obtained even at an extravagant cost from any other source. For twenty-five cents you can buy a package which will make sixteen quarts of Blanc Mange, and a like quantity of Puddings, Custards, Creams, Charlotte Russe, &c.

THE GREAT

Spring & Summer Tonic.

Medical treatment has been revolutionized, and at last the discovery has been made that RENOVATION, NOT PROSTRATION, IS THE TRUE MEDICAL PHILOSOPHY. The introduction of PLANTATION BITTERS, prepared with pure St. Croix Rum and Calisaya Bark, opened the eyes of the world to this great fact. The life-sustaining principle embodied in this great Vegetable Restorative is manifested in the weak and desponding by an immediate and most encouraging change. If the appetite has failed, it is quickened; if digestion has been painful and imperfect, it becomes easy and thorough; if the liver is torpid, it is roused and regulated; if the nerves are relaxed, they are strengthened and restrung; if the brain has been haunted by morbid fancies, they are put to flight, and hope and cheerfulness return. In the face of the extraordinary cures of general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation and mental despondency, wrought by Plantation Bitters, no practitioner not in league with death and the undertaker could persist in it. The terrible evacuants which were once prescribed as Spring and Summer medicines have utterly lost their prestige. The sick will not take them, and Plantation Bitters, in which are combined the elements of a stomachic, an invigorant, a mild laxative, a nervine, and an anti-bilious specific, reigns in their stead. Sold by all Druggists.

ARMY OPERATIONS AROUND PARIS.

New York, Sept. 28.—The latest advices show that the occupation of Orleans will compel the abandonment of the line of the Loire, and the capture of Tours is now probable. This will leave all the western departments open to raids of the Prussian cavalry. Lyons may soon be occupied, and the Prussians will no doubt overrun France with mounted men, who may devastate the whole country.

Tours, Sept. 26.—A despatch announces that the Prussians have not entered Orleans. They came near the city, halted, and then commenced falling back toward Paris. A civilian whom they captured and subsequently released says Prince Albert received a despatch, which caused him suddenly to change his plans. The Prussians have entirely evacuated Pontainebleau. They impose no tax on citizens, but make heavy requisitions for provisions and forage.

A despatch from Epinal, dated the 27th inst., says: The Prussians attacked Raon yesterday, but were repulsed.

SURRENDER OF STRASBOURG.

Carlsruhe, Sept. 27.—A telegram has been received from Ludwigshafen announcing that Strasbourg surrendered on Monday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

London, Sept. 28.—King William's despatch to Queen Augusta, announcing the capitulation of Strasbourg at 11 o'clock last evening, is just made public here, at noon. Other despatches say the city surrendered at 2 o'clock.

[illegible] Sept. 28.—The surrender of Strasbourg was signed at [illegible] o'clock this morning [illegible]. Colonel Loewitz, by this surrender [illegible] [illegible] and fifty-one officers and seven [illegible] men laid down their arms. [illegible] place will be occupied by the [illegible].

[illegible] Sept. 28.—The New York Tribune's [illegible] at Strasbourg, telegraphs on the 25th: As [illegible] morning the gates of Strasbourg were opened by the German troops. It is reported that the inhabitants, driven to desperation, succeeded yesterday evening in hoisting a white flag on the cathedral, but Ulrich ordered it removed. The [illegible] was afterwards compelled by the pressure of the citizens and garrison. There is great [illegible] here over the victory. Salutes are firing [illegible] bells are ringing.

THE SITUATION IN AND ABOUT LYONS.

[Special Despatch to the New York Sun.]

Lyons, Sept. 27, via London, Sept. 28.—It was [illegible] difficulty that I reached Lyons. I [illegible] Paris Saturday morning, and was obliged to [illegible] by Rouen, and arrived here Monday night. Everywhere the [illegible] were covered with soldiers and recruits [illegible] Army de la Loire, which is in the way of [illegible] at Tours, and another of Du Rhone, [illegible] the command of General Cluseret, which [illegible] about to be organized from Marseilles to Lyons. These two armies will harass the Prussians [illegible] the siege. Here is certainly the last hope [illegible]. The people are more energetic and [illegible] than in other parts of France. They [illegible] the direction of their own affairs. [illegible] Municipal Council, yesterday, unanimously [illegible] General Cluseret Commander-in-Chief of [illegible] Volunteer Army of the Rhone. He has not accepted, but will advise the people, this afternoon, from the Hotel de Ville, and will require [illegible] to raise, by exaction, 10,000,000 francs, [illegible] the organization of the army. If [illegible] money is granted, he will accept command. There is a rumor [illegible] Bazaine having cut his way to Sedan; but we [illegible] received, by a balloon, about five hundred [illegible] from Bazaine's soldiers, saying they will [illegible] for fair weather before moving. I believe [illegible] will happen than the escape of Bazaine. I [illegible] the Prussians are now in a very bad condition. There are six hundred thousand persons [illegible] arms in Paris. Everywhere the people are [illegible] to fight. Two new armies are in formation on the flank of the enemy, and there is a determination on the part of the people to treat as [illegible] all who dare speak of compromising with [illegible] Prussians.

[illegible], Sept. 27, via London, Sept. 28.—The [illegible] have retreated from before Mulhausen, [illegible] generally from the Haut-Rhin. They left in [illegible] a hurry that they abandoned their siege [illegible].

IN PARIS.

[illegible], Sept. 28.—A letter dated from Paris, [illegible] 24, says the population is animated by [illegible] sentiment—defence of the capital. The Mobile and National Guards behave with great [illegible] and determination. A Zouave who fled [illegible] recent fight without firing a shot, and afterwards attempted to kill the officer who arrested [illegible] has been shot by order of a court-martial. [illegible] measures have been taken with others [illegible] have behaved badly. The cowards are mostly [illegible] who joined the fragments of Zouave [illegible] which escaped from Sedan.

[illegible] officers of the Bank of France propose to [illegible] the notes on hand, in case there is danger [illegible] falling into the hands of the enemy.

[illegible] Preparations have been made to light the city [illegible] petroleum if it becomes necessary to cut off [illegible].

[illegible] has remarkable influence over the [illegible], who are prepared to defend Paris to [illegible]. The city has been orderly and quiet up [illegible]. Prussian reports of riots are false. [illegible] guard the Seine effectually on both [illegible] the city. Large numbers of men who [illegible] arms have been detailed as firemen in [illegible] need. The strictest measures have been [illegible] to insure order. The police force is large, [illegible] be supported by the military. [illegible] is no possibility of a lack of water. [illegible] numbers of women, who have organized to take care of the wounded, marched [illegible] the streets, one day, carrying banners, [illegible] enthusiastically applauded.

[illegible] Bourse is no longer frequented, and scarce [illegible] operations take place.

[illegible] Protestant pastor of Paschoudin, in the [illegible] of the League of Peace, has sent a telegram to the Queen of Prussia, as President of [illegible] for aid to the wounded at Berlin. An [illegible] came, in the name of the Queen, expressing an ardent hope for peace.

[illegible], Garnier Pages, and Arago have [illegible] to the Committee of Defence. Proper [illegible] have been taken to feed the poor.

[illegible] from the New York Tribune's special, [illegible] Paris 21, evening, was received to-day. [illegible] have been two deputations to the Hotel de [illegible] to interview the government with respect [illegible]. One consisted of about eleven [illegible] of the National Guards, mostly from the [illegible] St. Antoine and Du Temple, accompanied by a large crowd. They were received by [illegible] of Paris and Jules Ferry. The latter's reply is not very clear. [illegible] said no shameful peace [illegible] concluded, but whether, as some [illegible] answered the officers that no person of [illegible] soil should be ceded is not equally certain. [illegible] after this deputation left another [illegible] from the Republican clubs. It is stated [illegible] answer to this last deputation was [illegible] satisfactory.

[illegible] have been placarded with a proclamation from General Trochu to the armed force, [illegible] that some regiments behaved badly; [illegible] that their assertion that they had [illegible] was false. He [illegible]

THE SITUATION IN PARIS.

Special Despatch to the [illegible].

New York, Sept. [illegible].—A [illegible] of Chicago arrived [illegible] from Paris, having left [illegible] weeks ago last Thursday. [illegible] intelligent observer, [illegible] facts and impressions [illegible] tion in France. He [illegible] immense army in Paris [illegible] the French Generals [illegible] the army is bad. [illegible] worst class of the [illegible] impatient of discipline [illegible] dreamers, who [illegible] "levellers," but [illegible] stern duties of [illegible] are poorly armed [illegible] them having nothing [illegible]. The French intelligent [illegible] them to treat their [illegible] and strict discipline [illegible] class of the Parisians [illegible] they are giving liberally [illegible]. Though there are large [illegible] in Paris, they are greatly [illegible] awed. This class consists of [illegible] tradesmen, and a large [illegible] classes. Trade and [illegible] beyond all precedent [illegible] less, this class is fully [illegible] Empire, and would joyfully [illegible] of the fallen Emperor [illegible] feeling is very strong [illegible] though the ascendancy [illegible] prevents its full expression [illegible] believe in the inefficiency [illegible] Generals. The army [illegible] and was well handled [illegible] overpowering numbers [illegible] admit, could make [illegible]
